since 1753, the Moravian Archives has been documenting our churches, our families, and our communities. There have always been challenges with collecting, preserving, and sharing the records of Moravian endeavors these past 266 years. Some would be found in the maintaining of any set of records for that length of time, some in the nature of sustaining an institution for that length of time, and some unique to circumstances.

Our $300,000 annual budget is funded in nearly equal shares by the Southern Province of the Moravian Church, the Salem Congregation of Moravian churches and annual and planned gifts from individual financial contributors like you. The number of our annual giving donors decreased more than 25 percent in 2018, from 165 donors giving $29,122 in 2017 to 117 giving $24,185 in 2018. Gratefully we did not receive a decrease in our apportionment from either the Province or Salem Congregation these past two years. And while individual donations declined, we are equally grateful that there was $7000 in new and increased giving to our Archives. Times change and your Archives Commission is mindful of the challenges and opportunities those changes bring as it explores new funding sources and attracting a new generation of supporters.

In gratitude for your generosity, the Commission invites our Friends to its 2019 Annual Supporters Appreciation Night on September 19. Details will be sent to our current donors mailing list, but it will include a brief program outlining our work this last year and the hospitality Moravians value. This newsletter will show that Friends turning challenges into opportunities is already an ongoing Archives tradition.
Service Opportunities Met: A Volunteer Appreciation. Our first Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon in January recognized 15 volunteers who extended the Archives’ ability to serve visitors and researchers in 2018. A special thanks to our core of volunteers, shown here left to right: Jennifer Holton, Archivist Eric Elliott, Jennifer Scruggs, Samantha Thurman, Abby Mullis, Mary Audrey Apple, Barry Miller, Margaret Brady, Kayley Khan, Assistant Archivist Nicole Crabbe, Carol Brown, Sharon Weibel, Johnnie Pearson. Above: visiting kilns with Old Salem’s Geoff Hughes; making family history friends at AAGHS Conference at Old Salem; helping Conrad Mitchell and others tell the story of the second St. Philips Graveyard; welcoming Family History Docents Cindy Casey and Sherry Griggs; starring in Latvian TV special on Wachovia supporter Johann Steinhauer; learning Rockingham County history with Charles Rodenbough and Bob Carter; “Family and Flowers Day” on Great Sabbath; hosting Gravestone Cleaning Workshop by Historic Bethania’s Michele Williams; holding an indoor Graveyards tour for Historic Preservation Month.
The next volume of Records of the Moravians Among the Cherokees is now at press and set for an early fall release. We are grateful for Richard Starbuck’s healing from surgery and his good work. Volume 9 covers the years 1830-1834 and is subtitled “March to Removal, Part 4: They Shall Not Be Forsaken.” This ongoing work is made possible by a grant from the Cherokee Nation.

The Archives Commission welcomed three new members this spring: Christine Ebert (Ardmore), Paul Knouse (Home) and Barry Miller (Konnoak Hills). Our thanks to outgoing members Scott Brent (Friedland), Pat Nelson (Ardmore) and Mike Sloan (New Philadelphia). John Larson (Home) was elected Chair for 2019. As the governing body, Commission members oversee Archives operations. Other members are: Toni Bigham (New Philadelphia), Peggy Carter (Fries Memorial), Heather Fearnbach (Home), Michael Gwyn (Ardmore), Kirk Sanders (Home), and Rev. Scott Venable (Fairview).

Education Opportunities Met: Garden Exhibit Series Opens

With support from the Garden Club Council of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County (upper left) and the Old Salem Garden Club (upper right) the Archives is producing a series of three traveling exhibits. The first, “The Languages of Flowers in Moravian Wachovia” received good local press coverage and led to visits from the Forsyth County Master Gardeners (middle left), Old Salem Museums and Gardens gardening staff (middle right), and Davidson County Master Gardeners (lower left, photo by Sarah Draper). Archivist Elliott also spoke about the exhibit in talks at the West End Garden Club and Konnoak Hills Moravian Church, and during a lunchtime lecture at the Archives. The exhibit is at Historic Bethania this summer before traveling to the Forsyth County Public Library in the fall. We especially appreciate two donated large planters of flowers at our front entrance from Old Salem Garden Club members, shown lower right with Assistant Archivist Nicole Crabbe and Salem College intern Julia Jennings.

WITH THANKS TO OUR 2018 DONORS

from Winston-Salem, N.C., unless otherwise indicated

In our December 2018 Annotations, we reported that Sallie Greenfield through her Greenfield Ministries Fund had pledged up to a $5,000 match for all new donors and every dollar above current donors’ prior year giving. The individuals marked with an asterisk enabled us to get the challenge grant gift, with more than $7000 in new or increased giving. Thank you, Sallie Greenfield, and thanks to all our supporters!

Giving Opportunities: Corporate Matches, Planned Gifts

In January we received a matching corporate gift from the Reynolds American Foundation thanks to the initiative of Betsy Bombick, who knew the Foundation already supported other Moravian agencies with public outreach services. Check with your employer. Our Moravian records give insights to families as well as the greater community, and much of our historical material is open for use by the public.

In July 2018 the Archives received its first distribution from the Christian David and Dorothy Sohn Weber Mission and Ministry Fund. In January 2019 we received a generous contribution from the donor-advised William A. and Eleanor W. Starbuck Charitable Fund. We are most grateful for the assurances these planned gifts make toward our future. Types of planned gifts include bequests, charitable trusts, charitable gift annuities, qualified retirement plans, and donor advised fund grants. Please consider supporting the Moravian Archives through a planned gift. To discuss your options, please call Chris Spaugh at the Moravian Ministries Foundation at 888-722-7923 or visit their Web site at www.mmfa.info.

MORAVIAN STUDIES COLLABORATIVE WELCOMES REYNOLDA CONFERENCE

On November 5, 2018, the Archives hosted a first meeting of local academics, independent researchers, and Moravian record-keepers in Forsyth County. Meeting monthly, this Moravian Studies Collaborative aims to better share thematic research opportunities and support individual work. The goal is to develop diverse formats for sharing research with one another and various publics, partnering with area cultural and educational institutions to offer public symposia and conferences.

A first fruit of this collaboration was the May announcement by Wake Forest University that a Mellon Foundation-funded Reynolda Conference Grant had been awarded to Professors Grant McAllister (German) and Ulrike Wiethaus (Department for the Study of Religions) for their proposal, “Becoming American: Moravians and their Neighbors, 1772-1822,” to be held April 15-18, 2020. The Archives will work with these Wake professors to plan public and academic portions of this event in the community.
